Dr. Kim Brogden Invited to Attend the Gordon Research Conference on Chemical & Biological Terrorism Defense

Dr. Kim A. Brogden, Dows and Department of Periodontics, was invited to attend the Gordon Research Conference on Chemical & Biological Terrorism Defense - Multi-disciplinary Approaches to Chemical and Biological Defense. The conference was held in Ventura, CA, March 10-15, 2013. Major topic areas included chemical defense research with an emphasis on early host response to chemical agents and the use of cutting edge biological approaches to develop preventative countermeasures; host pathogen interactions and basic virulence mechanisms; cutting edge research on biodetection of pathogenic microorganisms and early diagnosis; immune suppression and evasion strategies of pathogens; and agents of agricultural bioterrorism with an emphasis on basic mechanisms of virulence and parallels to mammalian host-pathogen interactions.

Dr. Brogden was asked to present his current research, "Antimicrobial Peptide Modulation of Chemokine and Proinflammatory Cytokine Responses: It's All in the Timing" in the Monday, March 11, session, ‘Host Responses to Biothreat Agents.’

Dr. John V. Doering to Retire

Dr. John V. Doering has been a member of the UI College of Dentistry since 1974, except when he served as assistant executive director of the California Dental Association in the early 1980s. He returned to Iowa and the Family Dentistry department in 1982 and has remained here since then.

Dr. Doering was born in Ft. Madison, Iowa. He majored in English literature and minored in philosophy at Regis College (Denver, Colorado) where he graduated cum laude. After earning his DDS in 1970 from Iowa, he was in private practice for four years in Littleton, Colorado. Then he returned to Iowa’s faculty again and completed a master’s in higher education administration in 1976.

Family Dentistry’s DEO David Holmes says, “Dr. Doering has been a group leader in our department since 1974, and during that time, he has also served as director of clinic operations, director of the Dental Auxiliary Utilization (DAU) Program, director of the Advanced Education in General Dentistry (AEGD) Program, Department vice chair, and several times as acting department head. In addition, he has served on numerous collegiate committees (most notably as chair of the Academic and Professional Performance Committee from 1989-1991 and from 2000 to the present), and in several university and national leadership roles. Dr. Doering has made countless contributions to the development, implementation, and continuous improvement of our teaching programs in the Department of Family Dentistry. He will be sorely missed; his legend will live on in the department’s folklore.”

As retirement approaches, John acknowledges he will miss “the quality of most of the students, staff, and faculty” as well as “the excitement and stimulation of what the students bring to us, the Midwestern work ethic of the faculty and staff, and watching students grow into respectable professionals and fine individuals.”

“I always tell the students that they need a game plan both professionally and personally,” Dr. Doering says, “but now with retirement, I don’t have a game plan. I trust a few windows and doors will open. I have to move on to this next stage in life before I’m forced to move on and also while I’m still credible with the students.”
In his spare time, Dr. Doering enjoys making gourmet meals for dinner parties, snow skiing, cleaning house, "racing cars," and raising his two Shar Pei dogs, Wanda and Gertrude, adopted by him from a Chicago Give-Them-a-Forever-Home shelter.

After he retires, John thinks he may spend 40% of his time in Fort Collins at his second residence. He was attracted to the Colorado city because of its active, vibrant, sophisticated community, which is strongly influenced by Colorado State University. He describes the downtown area as "similar to Iowa City but five times larger," with historic old buildings. An Ace Hardware store, for instance, resides in a building originally built for a hardware store.

He enjoys his two-story home outside Iowa City, which is surrounded by prairie grasses and forbs (herbaceous flowering plants), but he contemplates downsizing because the house is too big for one person.

Dr. Doering’s advice to the dental students is this: "Don’t stop learning. Kick yourself in the a to keep on going. You have to continue to grow professionally. When you stop learning, you can make money but you’ll be bored and your patients will know it."

We wish you the best of luck on your retirement, Dr. Doering. The faculty, students and staff will miss you.
