The morning lectures will cover the different types of digital pathways available for denture construction at this time, as well as the 2-appointment and 3-appointment pathways. A thorough review of patient assessment and anatomy, as well as denture problem-solving will be presented. Finally, the scientific research to help the practitioner identify the "do's and don'ts" of digital denture construction will be discussed as it pertains to clinical relevance.

Afternoon: Two patients will be treated in our clinic for digital dentures, one using a 2-appointment pathway and another using a 3-appointment pathway. The course participants will observe the live patient treatment by broadcast to the auditorium. Demonstrations of new denture impression techniques, bite registrations and esthetic records used for digital dentures will be demonstrated.
