Thrice! The Orthodontic Residents Again Receive First Place!

The Orthodontics residents have once again received first place in the American Association of Orthodontists (AAO) resident case display competition. They received the award during the recent AAO meeting, which was held in San Diego, California.

This was the third consecutive year they have received first place. (In 2014, they won second place.)

Each year at the AAO annual meeting, residents compete from throughout North America by presenting records of their best treated orthodontic cases (patients treated during their orthodontic residency).

Eighty-nine percent of the Orthodontics residency graduates have passed the initial certification examination given by the American Board of Orthodontics. (The national average is 32.6 percent.)

Stacey Howes (D3) Becomes Vice President of the NSRG

Stacey Howes (D3) is now vice president of the National Student Research Group (NSRG). She began her term at the conclusion of the 2017 meeting of the International Association for Dental Research, which was held in San Francisco.
Several Faculty, Staff and Students Attend the National Oral Health Conference

Several faculty, staff and students from the College of Dentistry attended the National Oral Health Conference (NOHC) in Albuquerque, New Mexico, April 22-24. Faculty attending included Ray Kuthy, Steve Levy, Susan McKernan, Michelle McQuistan, Julie Reynolds and John Warren, all from Preventive & Community Dentistry, and Mike Kanellis and Cathy Skotowskki from Pediatric Dentistry. Staff included Daisy Patino (Preventive & Community), while students included Dental Public Health (DPH) residents Nyla Balakrishnan, Peter Drouillard, Aparna Ingleshwar, Matt Oishi and Jennifer Sukalski, and Sean McGivern (D4).

Highlights of the conference included:

Former DPH grad student Mary Kelly receiving the second place award in the Leverett Graduate Student Merit Award for her study, "Utilization of Oral Health Procedures by Medicaid-enrolled Senior Adults as the Transition from Community-Dwelling to Nursing Facility";
Dr. Michelle McQuistan being installed as president-elect of the American Association of Public Health Dentistry; and Dr. John Warren assuming the office of Vice President of the American Board of Dental Public Health.

An interesting historical tidbit from the Albuquerque Museum of Art and History (site of a dinner reception during the conference): Dr. Howard Riley Raper, a pioneer in dental radiology who is credited with inventing the bitewing radiograph, was one of many prominent individuals who moved to Albuquerque because of tuberculosis. It was believed that the combination of dry air and high altitude in Albuquerque and other cities in the Southwestern U.S., were therapeutic in treating this disease, as no ‘cure’ existed until the advent of antibiotics. Apparently, it worked in Dr. Raper’s case – he lived to the age of 91.

Hawkeye Caucus Day 2017

Hawkeye Caucus Day is a day to highlight the accomplishments the University of Iowa is making in Iowa City and across the state at the State Capitol in Des Moines. It’s a unique, once-a-year chance to meet University of Iowa students, leaders, faculty, and alumni as they showcase the university’s continued commitment to statewide service.

Students and representatives from over 30 different UI colleges, departments, and programs drape the capitol in black and gold to show state legislators their Hawkeye pride. So are you with Herky? Join us at this year’s Hawkeye Caucus Day!

Pediatric Dentistry Student Group Participates in “Week of the Young Child” Event at the ICM

On Saturday, April 29, several dental students participated in the “Week of the Young Child” event at the Iowa Children’s Museum. Students provided approximately 50 children oral health education, dental screenings and fluoride varnish.

The annual event allows young children and their families an opportunity to interact with several organizations and receive health, social and cultural services and information. Supervising the event were Pediatric Dentistry residents Drs. Amy Lesch and Nicole Youngers and Pediatric Dentistry faculty member Cathy Skotowski.

Rachael Kowbel, Dr. Natalia Restrepo-Kennedy and Lizzie Axell Travel to Grinnell College to Talk about Dentistry and Offer a Waxing Activity

Rachael Kowbel, director of Dental Student Admissions, has been in regular contact with the Minority Association of Pre-Medical students (MAPS) at Grinnell College over the past academic year. On Tuesday, April 25, Rachael, Dr. Natalia Restrepo-Kennedy (Operative Dentistry), & Lizzie Axell (D3) traveled to Grinnell College to share “Why Dentistry” and participate in a waxing activity. Dr. Restrepo-Kennedy led an engaging presentation on the importance of waxing and the instruments utilized. Lizzie Axell offered valuable waxing tips, insight on what life is like as a dental student, and her plans post-graduation.

The MAP students from Grinnell College have participated in several recent collegiate activities and have boasted that the involvement has peaked student interest in dentistry.
