The University of Iowa Health Science Campus, including the College of Dentistry, is a recipient of a grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. The purpose of the grant is to establish a long-standing Summer Health Professions Education Program (SHPEP) at the University of Iowa. The program is a pipeline for rising sophomore and junior undergraduate students interested in pursuing health sciences careers over a six-week intensive period on campus.

In total, 80 students from Iowa, the surrounding states and nationally are participating in the program. Each Thursday afternoon, 20 students who are interested in pursuing a career in dentistry participate in activities at the College of Dentistry. The program is currently in its fourth week and has exposed participants to shadowing in the clinics, dental specialties, impressions, mouth guards, digital dentistry, the life of a dental student, and the dental admissions application process.

Malachi Zeitner (D2) has worked to coordinate lab activities and serve as a mentor to participants. Dr. Michelle McQuistan, co-investigator, and Ms. Rachael Kowbel, director of Dental Student Admissions, serve as the primary contacts for the College of Dentistry. Numerous other CoD faculty, staff and students have also volunteered with the program.

If you see the students in the building, please be sure to say hello!

Dr. Sandra Guzmán-Armstrong (Operative Dentistry Department) is one of the co-founders and first secretary of the American Academy of Cariology (AAC). The vision of the AAC is to eradicate dental caries in the United States through the promotion of science-based disease management.

The Academy is the leading interprofessional organization that advocates, communicates and supports development and integration of cariology to promote oral health with focus on:

- Research
- Professional and community education
- Science-based caries management for individuals and communities.

The Academy activities will not only focus on engaging the dental community but also other healthcare providers, such as physicians and nurses, teachers, social workers, and other similar professionals who may help to achieve the mission.

The AAC has been established as a non-profit corporation since 2015 and have five main pillars:

1. Interprofessional
2. Advocacy and support
3. Caries-related research
4. Caries-related professional and community education
5. Science-based caries management for individuals and communities

Other co-founders and Board members of the Academy include: President: Margherita Fontana (University of Michigan); Treasurer: Peter Rechmann (University of California San Francisco); Pillar Chairs: Rebecca Slayton (University of Washington); Domenick Zero (Indiana University); John Featherstone (University of California San Francisco); Mark Wolff (New York University); Doug Young (University of the Pacific)

The Carver College of Medicine Office, Office of Faculty Affairs and Development is pleased to announce a partnership with the Research Development Office at the University of Iowa. They will be offering a grant writing workshop on October 24.

Dr. M.S. (Peg) AtKisson earned a PhD in neuroscience from Tufts University but has spent most of the last 16 years thinking about grant applications. In 2001, she founded the grant and research development support office at Tufts University, where she and her team helps secure $140,000,000 in grant funding through 2010. She also worked for Grant Writers’ Seminars and Workshops from 2009-2016, providing training in grantsmanship and direct support for individual applicants.
